Lebanese American Organizations' Leaders Discussed in Washington DC Current Situation in Lebanon.

Leaders from Lebanese-American organizations, in support of Lebanon in its current crisis, met for a conference at the United States Capitol in Washington DC on July 28, 2006 to discuss among themselves and with US officials the ways to address the roots and causes of the current crisis in Lebanon to devise and suggest long lasting solutions to set up a plan of action to help end the dangerous Lebanese situation.

Congressman Darrel Issa deploring the violence and raising concerns about the humanitarian crisis insisted on respecting the authority of the Lebanese government as the sole representative of the free will of the Lebanese people. Representative Issa had visited the White House that morning with other Congressmen from Lebanese origin. They asked for a cessation of hostilities coupled with a long stabilization plan for Lebanon. They received assurances that the President is concerned about the civilian and the humanitarian losses while committed to a lasting solution for Lebanon. Congressman Charles Boustany sympathized with the Lebanese for their losses and supported his colleague Mr. Issa for his stand. Dr Boustany pledged total support to Lebanon in its current crisis and reassured all present of his commitment to work with his colleagues to finding a lasting solution for Lebanon and relieve the suffering of the Lebanese people. Senator John Sununu sent his assistant Mr Martin Bayr in a show of support for the leadership conference.

Ambassador John Bolton US Ambassador to the United Nations sent a letter to the Conference with Deputy Ambassador Ms Sarah Tinsley Demarest, reiterating that he will not rest until he sees Lebanon sovereign and fully independent from all foreign interferences; the immediate task facing the US Mission and the UN Security Council being the formation of a multinational force to deploy in Southern Lebanon and separate the protagonists.

The Director of Public Diplomacy at USAID the Honorable Walid Maalouf presented the conference with a report of the first aid package sent to Lebanon along with future commitments from his agency to assist the Lebanese people.

At the end of the conference Dr. Joseph Gebeily, President of the American Lebanese Coalition, read the resolution to the media on behalf of the organizations present.
